The temptation of Jesus – The devil tries us in a similar way.

The devil tempts us precisely by taking advantage of the needs and weaknesses of human nature. After fasting for forty days and forty nights, Our Lord must have been very weak. Here He is in the wilderness. He feels hungry just like any other man in such circumstances. This is the moment the tempter chooses to come forward with the proposition that He should turn the stones into the bread He so desperately needs. Jesus not only declines the food which His body requires, but also rejects a greater temptation : that of using His divine power to solve a personal problem ...

How generous Our Lord is in humbling Himself and fully accepting His human condition! He does not use His divine power to escape from difficulties . Let us pray that He will teach us to be tough, to love work, to appreciate the human and divine nobility of savouring the consequences of self-giving.

If we are to overcome temptation we will have to repeat confidently over and over again the petition in the Our Father – and lead us not into temptation.

Since it is Our Lord Himself who puts such a petition on our lips, it would be good for us to repeat it continually.
