The solemn, yet simple entry into Jerusalem

Come, and as we make our way up to the Mount of Olives, let us go out to meet Christ

.....
Jesus leaves Bethany very early in the morning. The procession was organized quite quickly. Some people spread a blanket on top of the animal and helped Jesus to mount upon it; others came forward to lay their garments on the ground to form a carpet for the donkey to pass over; many others ran along the roadside following the procession as it moved towards the city, laying down bits of green foliage along the route and waving olive and palm branches torn off the trees close by. And as they drew close to the city, the whole multitude of disciples began to rejoice and praise God with a loud voice for all the mighty works that they had seen, saying ‘Blessed is the King who comes in the name of the Lord! Peace in heaven and glory in the highest!’

Jesus makes His entry into Jerusalem as the Messiah upon a donkey – he makes do with a poor animal for a throne. Jesus sees how Jerusalem is sunk in sin, ignorance and blindness. Our Lord sees how other days will fall upon it which will no longer be like this present day of joy, but rather misfortune and destruction. A few years later the city will be razed to the ground. Jesus weeps over the impenitence of Jerusalem. How eloquent these tear of Christ! They are full of mercy, sorrowing over the city which has rejected Him. Jesus had tried everything with everyone, with simple people and with the learned doctors of the Law. Today, as well, Jesus offers the riches of His grace to every man, because His will is always to save. Each man is the object of the Lord's special love. The triumphal entry of Jesus into Jerusalem asks for loyalty and perseverance from each one of us

A talk with regard to the ethics of legislation to organ donations will be given by Prof Jans on Wednesday 11 April at 7pm at St Augustines 53 Lev Rd Victory Park
