The Struggle in Little Things –

We will be vigilant in love and far from lukewarm if we remain faithful in the little things of each day. Little things are the prelude to greater things, and loving vigilance feeds upon them. He who pays no attention to things that appear to lack importance falls into the greatest temptations. Saint Francis de Sales emphasizes the importance of conquering in small temptations.
Moreover, even though wolves and bears are undoubtedly more dangerous than flies, they never cause as much discomfort or try our patience as much.
It's easy, the saint points out, to avoid homicide, but how difficult to avoid anger over little things.

Small daily victories strengthen the interior life and make the soul more sensitive to divine things. They are common situations : living the heroic minute on waking or starting our work; offering a mortification at meals; living sobriety during a social engagement; offering pleasant conversation to others..
We are certain that for all the battles we win against those small enemies there will be a precious stone placed in the crown of glory that God prepares for us in His holy kingdom.

If we make an act of love with each temptation, we will be filled with peace, and that which could have been an offence against God we will turn into a victory. Furthermore, writes the saint, when the devil sees that his temptations move us to love God, he will cease to tempt us.

If we are faithful in little things we will be girded and on the alert when our Lord arrives.... our life will have been a joyful wait
